

Abstract

Title: Analysis of the activities of the Police of the Czech Republic in the field of crime 2017-2019

Objectives: This thesis objective is about the processing and statistical expression of actions of the Police of the Czech Republic for the period 2017 – 2019 in the Czech Republic. Another objective is to create a comprehensive overview of the history, activities, and areas of criminal police in individual regions and all territory of the Czech Republic

Methods: This thesis uses methods of content analysis, data mining from available resources and materials, method of descriptive statistics and subsequent comparison of data. The data obtained are presented graphs and via tables, which are described and reviewed.

Results: The result of the thesis is a complex description of the Police of the Czech Republic from its inception to the present, its operation and legislative competence. The operations of the criminal police are also described, and concepts related to it. Numerical data of all interventions by the Police of the Czech Republic in crime for the period 2017 – 2019 are written and evaluated here. This data is supported by clear graphs and tables with exact number of the interventions.

Keywords: activity, crime, area, police, causes